

Computerized Thinking / David Avidan

Thinking in a calculated way is an important matter,
In the jungle, in the desert, away from a settled-area,
In a remote place, a non-place or in space
And not thinking any biological thoughts.

Think in a different manner, a different way
Even if you see a strange thought.
Think swiftly, simultaneously, and very fast
And don't expect condemnations or compliments.

Thinking differently is another matter,
It is important to start this immediately and not after.
You can impose tasks on such thinking-
New realities, various possibilities, dreams.

But you cannot take away its otherness
Staying close to it, with it,
Walking with it to the limit of possibilities
And there- developing unpredicted newness
