

Dear Sir/Madam,

Welcome to the 1st International Military Operation Simulation Summit! The Art of Force Build-Up has become more complex and challenging than ever before. In the past, in a relatively steady environment of threats, we were able to predict how the future battlefield will look and direct our force build-up accordingly and years ahead of time. Nowadays, as threats rapidly evolve and technology continues to advance fast, the difficulty of predicting adversaries' next move and directing our forces to respond accordingly, has become ever so challenging. In the IDF we have developed our unique methodology and tools to simulate the Operational Campaign. During the Summit we will discuss various tools and methodologies for Operational Campaign Simulation. Moreover, for the first time we are approaching the International Military Simulation community enabling a Global opportunity for engagement, learning and collaboration. Don't miss the opportunity to participate in the most innovative Summit for Operational Simulation. Together, we will strive forward to create a community of professionals that will enable us all to best prepare our force to future challenges! Mark your calendars and attend the event, See you there!
